

Isaac Lincoln

Great uncle of President Abraham Lincoln, Isaac came to Washington County, North Carolina (present-day Carter County) prior to 1775 from Augusta County, Virginia. Daniel Boone, a relative, had lived for a short time on the Watauga River and Lincoln settled nearby.

In 1779, Lincoln made an entry onto 265 acres lying on the Watauga River. This property mentions Lynn Mountain and according to the book, The Lincolns and Tennessee, by Samuel Cole Williams, Isaac Lincoln lived on Lynn Mountain. For a time, Thomas Lincoln, father of Abraham Lincoln lived on the property where his great uncle lived. Some believe that Abe was actually born in TN-no documentation to prove this.

Isaac and Mary were the parents of only one child, a son, who tragically drowned at the age of three. After his death, the couple took in a nephew, William Stover and raised him.

Isaac and his wife are buried on this land grant property in a small family cemetery.
